

Public Interest Journalism Fund

Round 6 (Sept - Dec) Funding Round Information for Applicants Industry Development, Projects and Roles Funding

If you have any questions/pātai about the following information - please contact Journalism Manager, Gabriel Thomas: gabrielt@nzonair.govt.nz

A. Purpose

This information is for applicants intending to make a funding application to the Public Interest Journalism Fund (PIJF). In an environment where there are more applications than available funding, we structure funding rounds so that wherever possible like applications can be considered at the same time. This enhances the contestability of ideas across the applications considered in each round.

B. Introduction

NZ On Air's funding strategy is founded on core public media principles. These include enriching the New Zealand cultural experience, improving diversity of media content in many forms, ensuring content is accessible, strengthening community life, and promoting informed debate. In supporting the Crown as a Te Tiriti partner, the PIJF acknowledges Māori and Iwi Journalism and the provisions made within the general guidelines.

C. Round 6 Priorities

Building on funding already distributed in previous rounds, the PIJF will focus on funding that supports the sustainability, capability and capacity of public interest journalism in Aotearoa New Zealand. Applications are invited across all three pillars of the PIJF including, Industry Development, Project and Role based funding.

It is expected that this round will have up to circa $10m available.

Following discussion with the PIJF Industry Advisory Panel and given the remaining funding available, previous allocations and expected demand, media entities will be able to make separate applications under each of the pillars but the number of proposals within each pillar will be limited to:

- 1 Industry Development application (new or previously funded)
- 1 Project application (new or previously funded)
- 2 Roles across both Targeted or Content Creation categories (not including Te Rito graduates - see detail in Roles Criteria below)

D. Eligibility and Assessment Criteria

Before you start your application, you must review the general eligibility criteria (page 4) in the General Guidelines and ensure you are eligible to apply. Assessors will use the following general assessment criteria to assess proposals.

PIJF General Assessment Criteria

Upholds PIJ	Meets the goals and definition of PIJ as outlined in Section 3 of the general guidelines .
--------------------	--

Māori and Iwi journalism	Supports Māori and Iwi journalism that is made by, for and about Māori and prioritises the perspectives, issues, interests and needs of Māori.
Targeted audiences	Targets content areas and communities (local, regional, national) that are currently not being fulfilled in particular: Pacific, women, youth, children, persons with disabilities, ethnic communities (with a focus on Pan-Asian communities).
Discoverability	A clear and convincing plan to reach the target audience/s.
Collaboration	Content distribution agreements, aggregation by platforms/publishers, sharing resources or co-producing content furthers the interests of the industry and audience.
Sustainability	Applicants should consider how their proposal might be sustainable beyond PIJF funding or how it might contribute to sustainable outcomes.

Previously funded projects or roles

The PIJF recognises the merit of building on and extending roles or projects that have demonstrated success already. Completed projects or one-year roles funded in previous PIJF rounds are eligible to apply for further funding but will need to demonstrate the following:

- How well the role or project delivered on intended outcomes
- Why the role or project deserves further funding
- Why the applicant is unable to financially sustain the role or project
- How further funding will increase the role or project's sustainability

Two-year role contracts not due to finish until mid-to-late 2023 are not eligible to reapply in this round.

E: Round 6 Criteria

Before deciding which pillar to apply under, check out this document which outlines the differences between each. The following criteria will be used to broadly analyse all applications in Round 6. Applications are not required to meet every criteria.

Industry Development Funding

Training for new journalists	Shortfalls in the journalism workforce and the provision of on-the-job training for journalists are issues that the sector, alongside tertiary education providers and organisations such as Toi Mai and the Workforce Development Council, will look to develop solutions to. In the meantime, the PIJF will respond to demand from industry to support training programmes that meet immediate and specific needs especially in the provision of Māori, Pacific and diverse voice journalists, where there are few, if any, alternative training paths. This could include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Cadetship/intern training programmes • Journalism graduate cadetship programmes • Specialist training programmes Individual roles should be applied for under the Roles funding pillar below.
Training for existing journalists (Professional Development)	There is an acknowledgement that in-house training has disappeared to a large degree and needs support. Training applications for a single media entity will need to demonstrate a structured approach with measurable outcomes and a rationale for why this training cannot be self-funded. Examples of possible

	training proposals include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • An in-house journalism training programme • Contracted training programmes that encourage innovation in how journalism is carried out e.g., visual, and online storytelling or new technology • Mentorship programmes (including mentor training) • Collaborative online Master Class projects Assessors will want to see: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Articulation of why this work cannot be delivered without PIJF funding • Demonstration of how it will help develop the goals of the PIJF • A detailed plan on how training will be effectively delivered in-house • Collaborations with other entities to maximise the funding reach • Demonstration of how sustainability of the project beyond PIJF funding has been factored or considered
Training that supports the PIJF goals of encouraging Te Tiriti partnership and education	We are interested to see education projects that increase the cultural capacity, Te Tiriti understanding and Te Reo Māori proficiency within the media workforce. We would encourage projects that enhance the ability of a news organisation to better reflect Te Ao Māori and serve Māori audiences. Short term consultancies or contract roles may be useful in developing rautaki Māori strategies for your organisation. For example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Cultural advisor/consultant • Te Reo Māori consultant • Iwi engagement consultant Specific assessment considerations include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The quality of the training programmes being proposed and ability to measure outcomes • The ability to encourage uptake of training within a workforce • An assessment of current baseline capabilities within an organisation A resource for entities wanting to develop their own Te Tiriti strategies has been developed in response to demand from the sector. The Te Tiriti Framework for News Media can be found here. The Framework is offered for guidance but is not prescriptive and applicants are free to articulate their own Te Tiriti response in their applications.
Funding for small-scale, targeted initiatives focused on sustainability / innovation	We are not looking to fund infrastructure projects with ongoing costs attached. We are interested in one-off targeted initiatives seeking innovation funding to pilot/develop sustainable business models, new media platforms, new technology solutions to content creation and sharing. These initiatives must be targeted at public interest journalism production. To apply for this funding, you will need to contact the Head of Journalism, Raewyn Rasch raewyn@nzonair.govt.nz to seek approval prior to submission.

Project Funding

We are seeking applications across the following Project categories: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. National audiences2. Local/regional audiences Priority will also be given to projects that have delivery timeline pressures.
National	Projects with a national audience focus that target content areas that are currently not being fulfilled, are substantially unfulfilled or at imminent risk. Specific round assessment considerations include: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Applicants will be expected to provide a strong (ideally evidence-based) case for this ‘at-risk or missing’ PIJ• The extent to which applications have any co-investment as part of their finance plan• The scale and size of projected audience reach.
Local/regional	Projects with a local/regional audience focus that target content areas specific to local and regional communities that are currently not being fulfilled, are substantially unfulfilled or at imminent risk. Specific round assessment considerations include: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Applicants will be expected to provide a strong (ideally evidence-based) case for this ‘at-risk or missing’ PIJ• Funding levels will likely be commensurate to platform/publication and audience size.

Projects seeking PIJF funding that are utilising existing staff resource to a significant degree will be asked to demonstrate that they are not subsidising existing staff salaries with PIJF project funding, or that they have backfill requirements.

Roles

This funding is intended to assist media entities to cover areas of public interest journalism that have become increasingly at risk due to lack of staff.

Given the number of roles funded in previous rounds and the extreme pressures on the journalism workforce, applicants should be confident they can recruit the roles they apply for. To avoid issues around poaching of staff from one media organisation to another and to meet the PIJF goals of growing the journalism workforce, priority will be given to those who can demonstrate they are proactively bringing new staff into the sector.

Before successful roles funding can be contracted and accessed, recruitment of those roles needs to be completed, with employment agreements in place. Applicants will have four months to arrange recruitment. The deadline for contracting individual roles with NZ On Air in Round 6 will be Friday 15 April 2023. Roles not filled by this date may have funding withdrawn.

Assessors will be judging role applications against these criteria

- How the role will address at-risk or missing PIJ.
- How well an application justifies why the role could not be funded without the PIJF.
- How the role will meet the needs of specific audiences especially key target audiences.
- Evidence that efforts will be made to retain PIJF role/s beyond the fund's timeframe particularly in newsrooms of scale.

- Evidence of collaboration with other platforms to increase content exposure.
- Applicant’s ability to recruit the role.
- Ability of the applicant to support the role (especially where Māori, Pacific or diverse voice journalists will be a minority in a newsroom).
- A relative balance across all applications and the funding resource.
- In regional areas where additional roles may conflict with or duplicate existing media providers, weighting will tend towards existing providers to limit further market fragmentation.

You can apply for the following categories of role funding for the following terms:

- Content creation roles - Contracts up to two years
- Targeted Roles - Contracts up to one year
- Te Rito Graduates – Contracts up to one year

Content creation role	Role that produces an agreed content output within a PIJ reporting subject scope (aligned to the General Guidelines) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • All content is accredited to the PIJF (see accreditation guidelines) • All content is included in PIJF metrics reporting • As demand for Māori journalists has increased, provision of Māori journalism roles will be prioritised to Māori Media organisations • PIJF roles will not be permitted to contribute to general reporting unless this is within the approved application subject scope and accredited accordingly
Targeted roles (Non-content creation roles)	Roles that enhance the quality of public interest journalism, such as, but not limited to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Sub-editors and Directors • Craft roles such as Editors • Digital and Graphic Designers Roles that enhance the sustainability, cost-effectiveness, reach, distribution, adaptation, and production of PIJ through developing new models and audience delivery methods such as but not limited to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Developers working as part of a wider project supporting sustainable local journalism • Audience engagement experts. We are also interested in role funding that could unearth new, viable business models. Critical assessment criteria for funding this type of role would include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Whether it contributes in an easily identifiable way to a project that has PIJ at its core • If it is part of a project that the publisher is substantially contributing to (and is heavily invested in) • If it is part of a project that has clear outputs on a clear schedule (either beta products or pilots)
Targeted roles that enhance organisational cultural capability	The PIJF encourages authentic Te Tiriti relationships between the media and Tangata Whenua. The PIJF can assist those wanting to build this relationship across their public interest journalism functions by funding a range of roles such as, but not limited to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Te Reo Māori translator • Kaupapa Māori Editor • Iwi engagement/Tikanga Māori role

	Applicants will need to demonstrate not only a need for the role but also a commitment to ensuring the role is fully supported and enabled to succeed. Priority will be given to applicants who show how the role will be integrated across a newsroom or organisation, the impact it will have on editorial decision making and how the role will be culturally supported. Assessors will also want to see what changes, outcomes or KPI's a role might be expected to produce. Given the shortage of experienced Māori journalists and advisors, priority will also be given to applicants who have at least had discussions with potential candidates and believe they can genuinely fill the role.
Te Rito Graduates	To build on the success of the Te Rito Journalism Cadetship programme, those wishing to apply for funding to employ up to 4 graduates from the 2022 programme can do so over and above the two-role limit. Each one-year funded role proposed for a Te Rito graduate will need to be incremental and meet the criteria for PIJF roles. While applicants are encouraged to employ the graduates on an appropriate pay scale to the role offered, the PIJF has set a per annum salary funding cap of $55,000 for each Te Rito graduate role and an additional $5,000 cap for salary overheads such as laptops, phone costs and office expenses. Any additional expenses or salary costs will be the responsibility of the applicant to cover. We will prioritise applications from: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Te Rito Cadet Scheme partners • Māori, Pacific and Ethnic media • Applicants who can demonstrate they have a supportive environment for the continued training of graduates • Applicants who can demonstrate they have engaged with graduates and have a reasonable expectation of attracting one or more into roles

Role funding is not intended to cover existing positions unless in the following exceptional circumstances.

- In cases where loss of staff is demonstrably imminent, non-incremental roles (NIR) may be funded. In this instance, applicants must be prepared to provide financial information (including potentially commercial sensitive information) on a confidential basis to be reviewed by an appropriate independent assessor. NIR require a separate assessment process with different timeframes to the funding rounds. Please see the further details here.

In cases where funded roles are recruited internally, applicants must backfill to an incremental level.

Further advice about qualifying roles can be sought from the PIJF team: journalism@nzonair.govt.nz
